

You'll Feel Wichita

Take in a breath on a cool night in Kansas
Take it all in and then let it thaw
Let it out slow in the cup of your warm hands
And lo and behold, you'll feel Wichita

Wake up and rise to a window in Kansas
Open your eyes, let the curtains undraw
Look out and stretch and your heart will do dances
And lo and behold, you'll feel Wichita

Like a night holding hands on a star-lit veranda
Just like a wink you thought you saw
Like a cool breeze as a porch swing fans ya
Like a whisper of love that you recall

Take to the Plains to a river in Kansas
Break out and stride by the old Arkansas
Listen with pride to its power and gladness
And lo and behold, you'll feel Wichita

It's more than a town, much more than a city
A place on a map you can draw
It's people with warm hearts
People who care
Wherever there's love
You'll feel Wichita
Wichita
